Obituary of the G. O. P.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

The words which Shakespeare puts into the mouth of Antony of Caesar's funeral concerning the irony of fate have their application to parties as well as to individuals. It is not more true that "The evil that men do lives after them," while the good is "scattered with their bones," than it is that political organizations deprived of power are not always sure to have justice done them and fair credit awarded them for the service they may have rendered to the country and mankind. Their mistakes and shortcomings are apt to be remembered in a vivid and ungenerous way, and their praise-worthy acts, dismissed with grudging reluctance, or given over to forgetfulness.
Especially in an age like the present, when things move so rapidly, and to-day so easily becomes yesterday, the chances that a sound and exact estimate will be at once made and allowed in such cases are not of the best; and a party so situated has reason to fear that more account will be taken of the successful failures of incidental over-sights by which it lost an election than of the sterling virtues which enabled it to achieve steady victory for a long series of years, against adverse influences of every sort.

An instance in point is directly at hand. The Republican party is about to surrender control of the government, after nearly a quarter of a century of supremacy. By a plurality of barely 1,149 votes in the State of New York, it is required to give place to a party which it defeated in five previous conflicts, and which it would have beaten again in this sixth struggle but for circumstances of a strictly casual and accidental quality.
In other words, a bit of blundering, a little imprudence, did for it what the prolonged and resolute assaults of its adversary had failed to accomplish. There is no ground for the claim that the impending change at Washington signifies a popular verdict against republican sentiments and principles, or a popular declaration of regret that the Republican party was allowed to rule the country so many years. And yet it is quite likely that we shall hear more of some time about the things which this party of unexampled victory omitted to do, and so invited overthrow, than about the things which it did, and so commended itself to general respect and gratitude. Because it stumbled in a matter of campaign tactics it will be reproached in a spirit of careless indifference to the correct and splendid parts of its record; and it must wait patiently for the sober second thought of the people to pass judgment upon it according to its true deserts.

That such a judgment will vindicate its right to be considered at once both the wisest and the most beneficial political party that ever existed, under its sway, the country has made greater progress than we ever before made in the same length of time by any country in the world. In all history, ancient and modern, there is nothing to match the results compass-ed by republican courage, skill and energy in the interest of popular liberty, of good government, and of the common welfare and prosperity.
The contrast between the national condition in 1861 and in 1885 tells a story; the political conquest and reformation, and heroic devotion to the right for the right's sake that will be an example and an inspiration for all time to the people of every land.
Count all the mistakes and all the omissions, and still there remains an absolute and unchallengeable amount of wise service well performed that has no parallel. The Union rescued from destruction, slavery abolished, citizenship relieved of all previous distinctions, the opportunities of labor increased in every direction—such are the fruits of republican rule that can not be denied and that will not cease to bear witness in defence and commendation of republican principles and methods of administration.
It may be that the truth will be obscured for a season, but it will be for a season only; it can not fail to receive due recognition as time passes and men come to look at the matter squarely and candidly, and to understand by experience how the substitution of a democratic for a republican way of doing things really affects the interests of the country.

A party with a record so radiantly excellent and honorable is not going to decay, fall to pieces and disappear.
Its mission has not been accomplished, its chances of usefulness have not been exhausted. The things that it has done for civilization and progress, for national glory and the practical benefit of all classes of people, are of a permanent character, and must continue to influence the popular thought and feeling in spite of the accession of the democracy to power for the ensuing four years. The new administration dare not undertake to reverse the main features of the philosophy by which the republican party has been guided. It could not if it would invalidate the great measures of liberty and philanthropy that the Republican party has placed securely in the statute books, and revive the old, exploded forms of belief and prejudice that prevailed in the era of Pierce and Buchanan. The very nature of things, the conditions of republican vitality and renewed strength and success are bound to be maintained, even under opposition control of public affairs. Those are false prophets and poor judges of the relation of cause and effect who predict that there are no more republican victories to be won because of the accidental defeat of last November.
A party that has ruled with such brilliant and extraordinary success for twenty-four years is not the kind of party that can be stamped and scattered and obliterated by a single misfortune. It has that within itself which is an ample protection against such a danger; and it will come to the front again in due time, not less enthusiastic and determined than of old, but wiser for its temporary loss of power, and therefore not likely to repeat any of the follies that served to interrupt its career of triumph when it should logically have gone on conquering in its customary way.

If the English can't manage the Nile, they should go across the country—its only a little way—and try the Red Sea. They could probably do as well with it as Pharaoh and his hosts.—Richmond Register.

Bills Passed.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—During the two sessions of the Forty-eighth Congress, there have been introduced in the House 8,286 bills and 345 resolutions. The following named measures of general importance have been enacted into laws: Bill to establish a Bureau of Labor; to establish a Bureau of Animal Industry; to prevent exportation of diseased cattle, and to provide for the suppression and extirpation of pleuro-pneumonia and other contagious diseases among domestic animals; to repeal the test-oath act of 1852; to limit to three years the time in which prosecutions may be begun against persons for violation of internal-revenue laws; to establish a bureau of navigation in the Treasury Department; to grant letter-carriers at free delivering offices fifteen days' leave of absence, with pay, in each year; to provide a retired list for soldiers and marines who served continuously to 30 years of age; to reduce the rate of postage on newspapers and other periodical publications of the second class, when sent by others than publishers or news agents, to one cent for each four ounces; to remove certain burdens from the American merchant marine (the Dingley shipping bill); to provide civil government for Alaska to prevent and punish counterfeiting in the United States of bonds or other securities of foreign Governments; to extend the duration of the Court of Commissioners of Alabama claims to make all public roads and highways post roads; to make it felony for any person to falsely presented an officer or employee of the United States, acting under the authority of the United States, or any department thereof, to relieve from charge of desertion certain soldiers, who after having served faithfully until the close of the war, left their commands without leave; to provide for the location of a branch home for disabled volunteer soldiers of the Mexican war and war of 1812, whose disabilities were not incurred in service against the United States; to recognize the Corps of Judge Advocates of the army; to declare forfeit ed certain lands granted to aid in construction of a railroad and telegraph line from Portland to Astoria, Oregon.

To recognize the Inspectors General Department of the army.
To provide for the ascertainment of claims of American citizens for the spoliation committed by the French prior to July 31, 1801, by referring them to the Court of claims.
Bills to prohibit importation and migration of foreigners and aliens under contract or agreement to perform labor in this country. To declare forfeited land grants to aid in the construction of a Texas Pacific railroad, and to prevent the unlawful occupation of public lands.

When Tried Always Preferred.
When they once become acquainted with it, ladies invariably prefer Parker's Hair Balm to any similar preparation. It makes the hair soft and glossy, arrests its falling off, promotes new growth, restores the original color, and has no rival as a dressing. Not a dye, not oily, highly perfumed. Only 50c. at druggists.

Skin Diseases.
I have a little daughter seven years old, who for the last four years has been afflicted with a peculiar skin eruption on her face and one hand.
I have tried seven or eight physicians, among them the best in California, and in this province, but to no purpose. The child kept growing worse.
Fortunately, I saw a statement in a St. Paul, Minn., paper, of a cure of a disease similar to that of my child. It was affected by Swift's Specific. I secured six bottles and commenced giving it to my little girl. In less than one week this terrible disease, which had baffled all the known remedies within reach, began to disappear. She has been taking it three months—is perfectly well, and her skin is as clear as wax.

What a Minister Says.
Extreme weakness and general debility, produced by exposure and overwork attendant upon my duties, were gradually developing into a total prostration of my system. Adopting the suggestions of intimate friends, who had experienced relief in similar cases by taking Swift's Specific, I now find myself restored to a perfect condition of health and strength.
Accept my fervent wishes for your continued prosperity in your well chosen and successful method for relieving those who suffer.

State Senator Poole, of Rochester, knows a good thing when he sees it, and, though a Republican, proposes to celebrate the inauguration of Cleveland by getting married. He will marry Miss Prather, of Frankfort, to-day.—Central City Argus.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Gen. Grant escaped the bullet to fall before the more deadly cigar.
Strange that a man who has so often been under fire should succumb to smoke.—St. Louis Times.

Gen. Ben. Butterworth, commissioner of patents, resigned early Tuesday morning. This is the first case recorded of an Ohio Republican dropping anything but a red-hot stove.—St. Louis Republican.

Class on social economy: Professor—Mr. Meninges, what would you suggest as the first step necessary to the discouragement of divorce?— Meninges—Fewer marriages.—Boston Transcript.

Cleveland's inauguration will be celebrated by Mexicans and 2 Americans on the summit of Mount Popocatepetl. In other words, those taking part propose to have "a high old time."—St. Louis Republican.

The Arkansas senate passed the bill to change the name of Douglas county in that state to Cleveland.
Steve W., the ex-senator from that state, after whom it was named, never was in high favor in Arkansas.— St. Louis Republican.

The "course of true love" traced by legend in the case of promisee recently read in this manner: "Dear Mr.
Smith," "My dear John," "My darling John," "My own darling Jack," "My darling John," "Dear John," "Dear Sir," "Sir," and all was over.—Chicago Tribune.

The critics are after John W. Daniel or using the expression "solitary and alone" in his Washington oration. Cattle of that class will pass unheeded the beauties of that splendid effort while they gloat over what may not be an error after all.— Louisville Times.

Hazen, of the Signal Service, is to be court-martialed. We are not clear as to what he has done, but suppose the charges against him refer in some way to the bitter cold weather he has supplied the country with during the past winter.
—Louisville Times.

Mr. J. G. Givens, of this State, read a very able and lengthy paper before the Chautauqua Literary Society recently on Kentucky. He mentioned all the natural productions of the State but, unfortunately, one—that of Colonels, which as all should know, is indigenous to the soil.— State Journal.

Florida was boasting of green peas and strawberries in January. Florida is doubtless a pleasant place to live, but it must be very discouraging to her people not to have green peas and strawberries until six months after Kentucky has feasted upon, and forgotten them.—Capital.

"In your sermon this morning I heard something that I never heard in any sermon before," said a deacon widow to a clergyman, who had tried the patience of his congregation to the utmost. "And pray what was that, my dear madam?" Inquired the minister highly flattered. "I heard the clock strike the hour twice."—Yorick.

Cleveland, Manning, Whitney and Endicott have their faces decorated with mustaches only. Vilas is a total stranger to the beard. Lamar shares his cheeks only, while Bayard and Garland are clean-shaven. Barring the little bare spot on the President's crown, there isn't a bald head among the heads of the Government.
—Louisville Times.

The lightning rod men are beginning to buzz around their headquarters, for the purpose of trying their wings. The short time that will elapse before the spring campaign opens and they will scour the country districts, admonishes the farmer to get a horse-rap and sharpen himself up, and to put fresh caps on his gun.—Capital.

"What will become of the Republican party after the 4th of March?" asks an esteemed contemporary.
The question which strikes home to the heart of patriotic Americans is, What will become of the country?
—Philadelphia Press. O, the country's safe. The Republicans have been pretty free with the movables, but they can't make off with the real estate.—Courier-Journal.

Denver Opinion wantonly goes out of its way and travels backward twenty years to heartlessly slander a dead soldier who had made the name of John H. Morgan illustrious as a cavalry leader when Opinion's editor was a child. The son of a gallant revolutionist should be slow to write unflatteringly of those who in other fields followed the same path his honored father took in the land of his birth.—Louisville Times.

A London, Ky., woman sneezed while she had a pin in her mouth and it disappeared down her throat, and she is now frightened almost to death with the thought that it will kill her. With as many places to stick pins about her as a woman has, it is strange that she should use her mouth as a receptacle for them and strange still that more accidents of the sort do not happen.—Interior Journal.

During the recent session of the Grand Jury, a minister of the Gospel was called before that august body, and asked if he knew of any disturbances of religious worship.
He replied in the negative. Then he was asked if a certain man was not at one of his appointments in an in-fidelicated condition, the minister replied, that this was true, but no one was disturbed thereby; remarking that the only difference he noticed, was, "that in singing, the gentleman held on to the tune a little longer than the rest of the congregation."—

Peterson's Magazine

For April comes to us with a lovely steel-engraving of "Adeline," one of Tennyson's heroines; a beautiful, double-size, steel, colored fashion-plate; and half a hundred other illustrations for stories, work-table, fashions, etc., etc. The stories—though "Peterson's" is celebrated for good stories—are better than ever.
Frank Lee Benedict's, "The Burglary at Archers," is full of humor. Mrs.
Stephens', "The Motherless Girl," gets more pathetic and powerful as it goes on. The brilliant novel of New York fashionable life, by Mrs.
John Sherwood, "The Lost Ariadne," comes to a conclusion, in which the parties who deserved it are properly made happy. A novel by a new author, "A Tale of Louisiana Pinelands," opens with great vigor, is full of local color, and promises to quite rival Cable, in its pictures of creole life. Certainly every woman of refinement ought to have this magazine, for it is emphatically the lady's book; and the terms are but two dollars a year, with great deductions to clubs. This is a good time to subscribe. Specimens are sent gratis, if written for, to those wishing to get up clubs. Address Chas. J. Peterson, 306 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Facts about the Child.

A healthy child is a joy in the house. A sick and feeble child is a constant worry. The diseases which attack the child are those chiefly which attack the digestive organs and the blood. Brown's Iron Bitters acts gently but powerfully on these, restoring the child to health and vigor. It is a pleasant medicine to take, and the children under its use will gain strength in every portion of the body.

Love's Young Dream.

George—"Ah, my dear boy, so glad to see you. You remember the last time we met you were thinking of buying a gilded cage for your pretty bird." Algeron—"I've not been after any bird-cages. You have got things my dear boy! I mean that you had your eye on a lovely little house which you expected to buy for your home after your marriage with that dear girl, Miss De Rich. What a charming wife you will have!"

"Oh! ah! yes, yes. I understand now."
"You secured the house, I suppose?"
"I got the refusal of it."
"And Miss De Rich; she accepted you, of course?"
"Well, I got the refusal of her, too—flat refusal, b'jove."—Philadelphia

That Fire Limit.

ED. SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:
Hopkinsville's "moral hazard" has been sadly lowered by our too numerous fires. We need to take every precaution to prevent its sinking flower. Old ordinances executed and new ones passed. But it seems our one little ordinance is about to go under. For several days a contest has existed between the council and a colored man. He started without permission to build a frame dwelling within the fire limits. Being stopped he argued for a few days and now proceeds to defy the law. He claims that one of the council told him to go ahead and that another one or more signed a paper to call a meeting of the council to vote down the law. Of course we do not know what the council, as a body, is going to do in this matter, but if they permit one or two members to set aside an ordinance or allow one man to defy them in this matter, then we have no fire limit, no law. Both the vicious and law-loving citizens will lose respect for the law and confidence in the fidelity of the law enactors. We do not wish to condemn before hand, but the house is going up. We want simply to enter our protest once, but not, for all.

CITIZEN.

DIED.

Mr. Richard Grinstead, of Todd Co., died at his residence, yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, in the 72nd year of his age.
The deceased was the father of Mrs. J. W. Rust of this city. He had been in poor health for some time and passed away yesterday morning after suffering for several weeks with an attack of pneumonia.
He was a man of strong convictions, of sturdy manhood and of lofty character, whose life was controlled by noble impulses and kind deeds. He was alike valuable as a citizen and a Christian. Those who knew him best loved him most. He leaves many relatives and friends to mourn his loss, but the crown of rejoicing is now his, and he goes to reap the victory of his life on the eternal shore.
Wm. Morrow has been sentenced to hang at Clarksville, Tenn., for the murder of Dick Overton, col. and the date of his execution fixed for April 17th. The Supreme Court has passed upon the case and nothing now remains but to enforce the penalty of the law. Morrow received his sentence with composure. The Tobacco Leaf says of him:
"The doomed man is a native of Montgomery county, has been twice married, and has now living a wife and three children. The father, Ransom Morrow, and son-in-law, Dr. P. F. Bellamy, are under sentence to the penitentiary for life, as accessories before fact to the murder of Jim Brown. Their case will be decided next Saturday. Wm. Morrow is also under a life sentence for this murder."

As a Jeweler and optician, M. D. Kelly has the largest practical experience.
Mr. J. E. McElfatrick, an experienced architect and civil engineer, has moved to this city to locate. We cordially welcome him to our city.
The grand jury have another lot of indictments ready to be returned in a few days.
Attention is called to the "Health Ordinance" published elsewhere in to-day's paper.
Mrs. Lindsay, mother of Mr. Geo. W. Lindsay, died in Cadiz this week. She was one of the oldest citizens of Trigg county.
In digging away the debris of the Beard building Wednesday, the workmen found the coal in the cellar still smoldering and smoking where it had been burning for 71 days.
A ten cent matinee at the Opera House Tuesday evening has been the only attraction of the week. It was well patronized by the school children.
The trial of W. D. Morton, the Clarksville forger, was continued last Friday until the 25th inst., and in the meantime Morton is in jail at Clarksville.
The Presbyterian church social will meet at the residence of Col. Jno. W. McPherson to-night. It is hoped that all will attend. Admission as usual, 10 cts.
The fine weather this week has kept most of the farmers away from the city. They have been at home busy burning plant beds and getting ready to put in their crops.
Mr. S. F. Fischer, formerly associated with M. D. Kelly, has opened a jewelry repairing establishment in Hooser & Overshiner's store and solicits a share of the public patronage.

John Moore is building a two-story tenement house on Liberty street near the colored Methodist church. As it is inside the fire limits it will be a frame house covered on the outside with metal, the only residence of the kind in the city.
Miss Mary Boales, an aunt of Mrs. Polk Cansler, died at Mr. Cansler's residence in this city last Tuesday. The funeral was preached at the Methodist church at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and the remains interred in the city cemetery.

The following are the officers of the Christian County Agricultural and Mechanical Association for this year: C. F. Jarrett, President; Dr. B. S. Wood, Geo. W. Means, Dr. Jno. C. Whitlock, Thos. L. Graham, C. D. Bell and H. H. Abernathy, directors.
A fire alarm was sounded Tuesday morning about 6:30 o'clock. The fire proved to be in E. P. Campbell's kitchen, which caught from a fluo. The family and servants succeeded in putting out the fire in its incipient stage and the loss was of no consequence. Owing to the early hour, the alarm created but little excitement.

It begins to look like Christian county is to have a hanging once more after all. Three indictments have been returned for willful and unprovoked murder. One of the murderers, Jordan Taylor, confesses his guilt and will plead guilty, and if the law is enforced there is no way to avoid hanging him. Let it be enforced.

Rev. C. S. Gardner, an eloquent and able young divine of Brownsville, Tenn., is assisting the pastor, Rev. J. N. Prestidge, in conducting the revival at the Baptist church. Services are held every day at 4 o'clock and at 7:30 o'clock p. m. Up to this time four girls—Lida Bell Donaldson, Cloe Williams, Bettie Hanbery and Fairmine Shanklin—have united with the church. The interest is increasing every day and there is a good prospect for a general revival.

The members of the Hopkinsville Cornet Band will give a phantom carnival at the skating rink this evening, which will be a novel and pleasing entertainment. The band will appear in full uniform, and will present new music and new marches. Maskers only will be allowed to skate before the ghosts' grand march at 8:30 o'clock. Masks off at 9 o'clock. The programme for the evening will be: 1st, general skating; 2nd, skate in couples; 3rd, everybody's grand march; 4th, general skating; 5th, ladies' choice; 6th, galop, "Away we go." Doors open at 8:15. General admission 25 cents, skates 25 cts.

The auction sales of the stock of the late firm of Burbridge Bros., have been well attended every day this week since Tuesday. Bidding has been spirited and most articles have sold well. The stock of groceries was choice and new and much of it has been bought by the grocers of the city. Mr. M. L. Christian has been acting as auctioneer. The stock involved a little over $2,700 and the amount realized from the auction sales will probably be but little less than the appraised value of the goods.

Christian County Medical Society.

Mark Earl was granted a decree of divorce from his wife Elizabeth Earl.
Geo. Royster, col., was tried yesterday during a hail in the civil docket and given three years in the penitentiary, for grand larceny.

FAIRVIEW FLASHES.

Our little village is quite dull except at night when it should be so, then it is some of the boys associate themselves with negro boys and make the night hideous with profanity, yelling and discharging pistols to the great annoyance of good citizens. It is ungallant, unmanly and is of no earthly good. Why don't you behave like civilized people? You are known and shunned by refined society.

Miss Sallie Darnall, one of the proprietors of the Hall School, at this place, and Abbie Petree, our special friend, will leave soon for Lebanon Ohio, to take a course in the Normal School at that place.
Mr. Eddie Wade, in company with Miss Ida Wilkins returned from a visit to friends in Illinois, a few days ago.

John — walks like there was briars in his heels; a little mustard is a good remedy.
Rev. Mr. Shaw, returning from a recent trip walked from Pembroke late at night, five miles to Mr. Wade's to get a horse to finish his journey home only about one and a half miles. He is for pikes sure.

One of our prominent business men whose nose looked like it had been through a threshing machine, says it was the confounded sleet and harshness applied by the good wife, instead of sweet oil, through mistake.
We are glad to learn that Dr. Armstrong, who has been sick and confined at home so long, is again well enough to be up and walking around.
The correspondent that said there were so many girls here wanting to marry from some cause, had to go near a hundred miles to get a partner.

Col. Brown, has been attending Circuit Court, at Hopkinsville; he is much troubled with rheumatism and makes a very awkward appearance with his crutches. The Col. will soon move with his family to Elkton to make it his future home.
A debatable question in local circles now is whether the celebration last Wednesday night and serenading was in honor of the inauguration of the President or the departure on that day of a dashing young widow.
What say you boys?

Miss Bertha Danforth, returned a few days ago from a visit to friends also our friend Miss Tommie Petree, returned from Hopkinsville.

The ladies think very strange that the authorities don't have better and more substantial side-walks. It is disgrace to civilization.

We are pained to see many of the young men of the neighborhood drinking and otherwise becoming rowdy.

Neither mental nor physical labor can be accomplished satisfactorily unless the system is in order. When you feel tired, languid, wearied with out exertion, the mind slow to act, and requiring great mental effort, you can rest assured that your Liver is not acting properly, and that nature requires assistance to help throw off impurities. There is no remedy that will accomplish this so mildly and yet effectually as Prickly Ash Bitters. A trial will satisfy you of its merits.
